THE RACES.

A BIG CELEBRATION FOR APRIL 21.

Some Fine Trotting and Pacing at the Driving Park—Special Trains—Everybody Go.

All lovers of fine horses and of races are anticipating a fine time on next Thursday. The Waco and McLennan County Fair Association has perfected arrangements for a day of racing on that day. As is well known to every Texan, whether of birth or adoption, April 21, San Jacinto Day is to Texas what the Fourth of July is to the balance of the states of the Union. It is a legal holiday more generally observed than any other.

The Waco and McLennan County Fair Association decided to celebrate the day and show to visitors as well as our home people what fine horses are owned in Waco and vicinity.

The following is the racing programme.

First race.—Three minute trot, three in five, half mile heats, purse $40 in three monies.

Second race.—Trot and pace 2:35 class, three in five, half mile heats, purse $50 in three monies.

Third race.—Three minute pace (T. M. P. barred) three in five, half mile heats, purse $50 in three monies.

Fourth Race.—free for all, trot and pace, three in five, purse $60 in three monies.

Efforts are being made to induce the Cotton Belt to run special trains to the track which is just two miles south of town. Whether this is done or not there will be plenty of transportation for all.

The admission will be only fifty cents and so will be in the reach of all.

There will be several privileges for sale, such as cigar, lemonade and lunch stand. Any one desiring to secure them should call on R. S. Ross, the treasurer.

AMUSEMENTS.

A Splendid Performance of the Galley Slave Last Night.

The plays presented by the Leslie Davis Fifth Avenue Company on Monday and Tuesday nights had but one fault. Some of the parts in both were undertaken by people who could never play them well. This fault was however entirely eliminated in the Galley Slave last night. This performance may be readily classed with the best ever seen at Garland's. Every part was acted as if it was especially written for the person assigned to it.

John Griffith as Sidney Norcott was good and J. W. Lewis as the Baron Le Bois as the villain secured high praise in shape of hisses from the audience. Frank Lindon as Oliver Oliphant and Gordon McDowell as Franklin Fitts had the comic roles and kept the audience laughing. But the best part in the whole play was that of Cicely Blane, by Miss Edna Earlie Lindon. Blessed by nature with great personal beauty and a wonderful talent for her profession, she, last night, tightened the wonderful hold she had upon the Waco theatre goers.

The admission this week is only 50 cents, the lowest ever given at Garland's. Go and you will see one of the best companies ever seen there. The cast last night was as follows: Sidney Norcott (the Galley Slave).

John Griffith
Baron LeBois.....J W Lewis
Franklin Fitts.....Gordon McDowell
Oliver Oliphant.....Frank Lindon
Wellesley Napier.....T. McDonough
Carrott, a jailer.....Harry Leslie
Cicely Blane.....Edna Earlie Lindon
Francesca Brabant.....Elma Cornell
Psyche Gay.....Ella Mason
Mrs. Gay.....Nellie Granville
Tonight Alberte, the Son of Monte Christo, will be given.

Preserving the Teeth.

People with limited incomes who would feel unable to meet the expense necessarily attached to extensive restorative operations on long neglected teeth should be religiously faithful in having them examined by the dentist at stated intervals, varying according to tooth structure of different persons, and if small cavities appear, have them filled without delay. Faithful home care must supplement this attention, as perfect cleanliness is the best known preventive of dental trouble. The fact is undeniable that defective teeth are in great measure due to neglect, and usually much harm has resulted before it is realized that an examination would return any other than a clean bill of health; therefore valuable teeth are frequently needlessly lost or require to be very largely filled.

In event of extraction, and so far as relates to the back or molar teeth, appearances may not prove so much a matter for consideration, but their loss certainly bears a close relation to the general health; as when a tooth or teeth are removed from one jaw the opposing teeth have nothing to occlude with, the food cannot be perfectly masticated and is necessarily taken into the stomach improperly prepared for action upon it of the digestive fluids, thus preventing necessary nutrition.—B. C. Cornwell, D. D. S., in Philadelphia Press.

Some Famous Diamonds.

Among the large and otherwise famous diamonds of the world the following may be enumerated: The Pig got, 82 1/2 carats; the Nassac, 89 1/2 carats; the Florentine Brilliant, 139 1/2 carats; the Eugenie and the Green Brilliant, each 51 carats; the Shah, 86 carats; the Saucy, 53 1/2 carats; the Orloff, or Orlov, 194 1/2 carats. The noted diamonds of lesser size and value are the Dresden, the Hope, the Austrian Yellow and the Polar Star.—St. Louis Republic.

The prettiest royal girl in eastern Europe is said to be the Princess Helene, of Montenegro, who, it is reported, is the chosen bride of the heir apparent to the Russian throne.
